

45-25

0556

(1)

82099

The following petition has been written by a female convict in Newgate under sentence of transportation—

To the Queens Most Excellent Majesty.

I know that it will not displease your Majesty that I cry to you for help. To you, who are exalted above all women by your virtues, I cry to your Majesty to save me, as one tumbled down from the battlements of an high tower, and dashed to pieces at the bottom by the hard rugged rocks. If your Majesty would know my feelings, they will be well described by supposing me just pushed off the top, and having caught hold of a corner stone, am suspended by my arms expecting my strength to fail momentarily, and that I fall down; or that the executioner should barbarously wrest of my hold, that I might be dashed to pieces.

How happy would not your Majesty be to see me rescued from this situation? yes Royal Lady, the distress of my Heart is greater than this would cause me. I have an affectionate Husband, whom I love; I am fastned by the strong ties of numerous relatives, and the endearing smiles of two infants, looking up in my face and smiling pity expecting me to foster them. They know nothing of the world but me; they have nothing but their Mother but alas! their Mother, their all, is shortly to be torn from them - their all, they are condemned to lose their all!

Because we every day know that many suffer hardships, we become familiarised to sufferings but still the individual does not feel less, because many feel sufferings; nor should I have less pity on this account for those that suffer. were I certain that my fate was to be death I believe I could reconcile myself to it; but to my present fate, although my heart has laboured till my strength has been exhausted, I am further from being reconciled in proportion as I strive to be so.

Death would give me insensibility but life brings all my endearments to my mind, which pierce my heart like a thousand needles; when fatigue has exhausted my strength and nature is forced to slumber, it is but to arise to increased woe. What do I not feel for my babe unborn, poor miserable! hardly will thy eyes view the light before the sorrows of thy Mother will cause them to be eternally shut.

I have suffered a great deal; the throbs of my heart have been deep my sighs have indeed been bitter my soul clings to my country, to my friends, to my babes to every thing dear to me, as strongly as I should cling to the rock to save myself from falling. I cannot reconcile myself; it will be my Death! O, therefore good and great Queen stretch out your mighty hands to save a poor wretch of your own sex from more than perishing. Let me live with my infants, my husband, and friends, to fill the world with grateful praise, to hallow the hour that the Supreme Being sent you to bless your people with your great goodness and tender mercies.

I have been condemned to be transported for stealing some muslin from Mr Chaloner, Linendraper, of Smithfield Bars. Indeed I did not steal it, nor did I ever attempt any such thing; the muslin was taken up between me and my infant; I had sat it down on the shop counter, while I went to the other end of the shop to buy some articles, it being exposed to any ones view, which had not the appearance of intending to steal. Nothing else was ever imputed to my charge.

These facts have been stated to the proper state officers to whom I have also been recommended by many respectable persons, I do not complain that they will not represent my case to the King's Most Excellent Majesty, nor of their conduct they have shown great concern for me; and the doors of my Sovereign's Secretary's Office have always been open to them; they have been very good - But the female convicts being ordered to be sent away, I am alarmed and cry to your Majesty in the distress of my soul to save the miserable and unfortunate

Newgate Oct 4th 1800 Mary Williams

Plain Truth

Addressed to those who seldom seek it;

Nor take delight,

When others speak it.

The Ladies of Britain are famed for their Beauty;
But if to speak truth be an Englishmans duty,
I'll tell them sans ceremony, to their face,
Of some ugly habits that tarnish their grace
These graces unfold as we rise in their favor;
But from Strangers are hid under sultry behaviour:
This foreigners feel and as <sup>Wendeborne</sup> told them,
Is a charge brought against them, by all who behold them,
They must feel it themselves when at Church, Ball, or fair, Dudain meets Dudain, with a brow beating stare.

Say Muse, as a female and knowing your Sex,
Why beauty is armed with the power to vex?

But such contradictions we frequently see,

Both honey and venom are found in the Bee

If we play with a kitten shill switch like a Devil;

And Parrots and squarrels are scarcely more civil.

Even lambs, grow mischievous, when once they get horns, Gooseberries and roses are furnished with thorns!

We will first see how strange ladies manage each other,
When they feel dispositions they awkwardly smother;
And then just examine at what awful distance,
Poor fellows are kept at, who make no resistance.

No Lady at ease is in company seen Unless she presides and is treated as Queen
Hence if two or three Queens are by chance brought together, Good Humour turns sour like cream in hot weather:
Heartburning and poutings, and sulking ensue
In sharing that homage each claims as her due
To be second in notice no one can endure
But weakly resent what good humour might cure
And when eager and wilful, strict justice requires,
They should ere in the means, and defeat their desires.
In paltry punctilios their passions engage,
And settle at last, in precedence to age.
This tribute in paying yields some consolation,
But Oh! — in receiving what mortification!
A mortification without a pretence,
That folly keeps ready, in lack of good sense.
What looks like respect only covers a sneer;
A shot from a pop gun that must not appear Yet some who receive it have used it before
And are paid by their daughters <sup>their mothers</sup> all score.
'Tis a whimsical fate and deserves to be told Thus give scorn when they are young to receive it when old!

Vulgar wit and low repite when a Matron is single,
Snatch time and occasion to make their ears tingle,
Yet many old maids, whom the insolent sea,
Tear by far their superiors, the best of their sex.

Full many a giggler, by anticipation,
Laughs at her sweet self ere she comes to the station;
And many pert wivers with their hearts full of woe,
Would gladly the honour of widowhood forgo,
To change with oldest old maidens they know.

But sense and good manners are scantily found,
In the gay giddy circles that flutter around;
For though paradoxical, still 'tis a fact,
The politer they would be the ruder they act.

Many men live in friendship the whole of their lives,
Yet can't bring together, aunts, sisters, or wives
'Tis the wish of the men, and this stirs up their mettle
To start such difficulties no one can settle:

Cross purposes point out, or downright refusing,
That visiting friends must be of their own choosing.

In London, indeed, where we mix in a crowd,
No one cares a farthing who's modest or proud;
The driven, or driving, in a circle preamble,
They scramble to live and live merely to scramble;
Then far from the sound of Bow bell let us stray,
And ponder on objects we meet by the way:
And, when we step into a country town,
Even shopkeeping ladies with dignity frown.

Reserve may be prudent but why add disdain?
Why spoil their own features to give others pain?
When lines fix'd by habits are sure to remain.

In passing a lady alone you'll allow,
Good manners may dictate some kind of a bow;
All homage thus paid, she receives as her due,
And stalks by you sulkily frowning a-hew!
Should two be in company rudeness grows hardy,
They'll stare of your hats should your manners prove tardy, They'll put your politeness to all it can bear,
And if three be together they'll have the last stare.

By accident into strange company brought,
You'll be put to the blush to behave as you ought;
With other men present you soon find assistance
But ladies keep at an inaccessible distance,
While apart they are holding half whispering Chat,
You are left to stroke Pompey or play with a cat;
Should you put in a word tis receiv'd with such coldness,
You shrink back to Pompey repenting your boldness.
Should one more indulgent, permit you to talk,
The rest keep aloof your advances to balk;
And should your new friend condescend to a smile,
They study to look more forbidding the while.
If drunk to at Table they note it as baner
And return to your compliment just a cold glance.

To be sure if you're empty, loud, selfish and young,
Each countenance brightens, unlets every tongue!

For these are the qualifications, whose aid is A key to the hearts of all staring fine Ladies:
Like to like, quoth one proverb, and birds of a feather,
We are told by another, will all flock together.

These modest Grandmothers had no such bold looks,
Their eyes found employment in work, and in books;
But reading (save novels) is now thought a shame
And nothing is worth'd but a picture to frame.

Such times, ladies scarcely look'd men in the face
But now they laugh decency into disgrace;
Excepting from fashion above all restraint,
Above all disguises, excepting - from paint.

With an mind quite neglected a young Lady soon, Gains assurance enough to out stare a dragoon;
Mistaking all merit, her own at the first,

If she can choose a husband she chooses the worst.

Pain truth tells us, modest good humour has grace,
More attractive and lasting than blooming bold face;
That bloom is soon over, while grace remains,
So preserve during life, what in youth they may gain;
But, that scorn in a female, like thorns in sweet brier Warns good sense and prudence from venturing to nigh her.

* Dr Wendeborne a German Cragman in London and who is believed to be still living published a few years since, a character of the English people, in German for the use of his country-men and afterwards translated it into English, that the people, among whom he chose to reside, might know what he said of them.
We have <sup>no</sup> reason to be dissatisfied with his display of our national character this

A Letter from Mademoiselle la Blanche supposed to be written by the Count De Sombriul just before his death

My Love my Emma the sad hour is come
In which I hasten to an early tomb
More pleased in death to gain a death life name
And thy glad records of historic fame
Than to have saved a mean inglorious life
And left those soldiers to the unequal strife
Who rescued by my arm from treacherous flight
As oft they curse de Papeys flight Shall speak the name of Sombriul with delight Shall teach their infant sons to list his praise, Shall teach them vengeance in maturer days,
Whilst tender mothers grateful tears will shed
Sweet tribute to the memory of the dead,
And future ages will repeat the strain
That celebrates a youthful hero slain

Hail then bright hope of fame I own thy power
To calm the horrors of a dying hour
And much I need thy aid to feel resign'd
For thoughts of Emma agonize my mind
Alas my betrothed my first my only love Severe the anguish we are doom'd to prove But when this last memorial thoult receive Thy faithful Sombriul will have ceased to grieve

The trembling hand which writes this last farewell
Will never more the pangs of absence tell
The heart that dictates will be cold in death

And the last sigh for thee have closed his breath Condemned to perish by a Truffean band

His corpse will smoulder in its native land Where first thy beauty charmed my youthful eye

Where first for thee arose the impassioned sigh
In that cursed land which proves the bloody tomb
Where virtue, talents, valor meet their doom

Think not my Emma that I fear to die

But when in fancy's mirror I descry

Thy gaze of agony thy frantic moan

For him whose soul was fast on thee alone
Who caus'd thy silent hope and anxious prayer

Oh there no more the flames of valor glow

But down a soldiers cheek the tears of anguish flow

Heavens what a life of bliss I now resign

Yet a few hours and Emma had been mine

The sacred altar had our vows received

The tenderest vows that we lovers breathe

When honors standard summon'd me afar

The deed of valor and the din of war
Why cruel memory retraced the day
That tore me from such happiness away
When thou my love disguised each tender fear
And faintly smiling checked the bursting tear
Then nobly said my Sombriol cease to mourn
Thank on the joys awaiting thy return
All that thy faithful Emma has to give
Of heart-felt transport thou wilt then receive
And Oh should heaven assign a fatal doom
Thy fame will flourish in a laurel'd tomb Nethinks those glorious accents still I hear
The trembling sound still lingers in mine ear
The tear suppressed the agonizing sigh
As thy last parting words were death or victory

---

Yes when the battle raged I thought on thee
To gallant deeds thy Image guidid me

Worthy of thy regard I strove to prove And valor kindled at the touch of love
To vindicate insulted virtuous laws

I joined the combat in the royal cause
But anarchists prevail at whose command
Deluded armies desolate the land
(Our savage foes) who love the bloody strife
And cowardly demand the prisoner's life,
Mindful of thy last words I had met death
On these resigned my breath,
But to preserve my troops I bear these chains
For them this transient being still remains
To share their Sombriol's fate they never repent
Our chains are light they fetter not the mind
And still I hoped their gallant lives to save
By offering mine a tribute to the grave,
But no our treacherous foes had long decreed
The savage sentence that we all should bleed

The last dread fatal moment now draws near My Emma thou may'st trace the falling tear
For thou I weep hear then my dying prayer
"Ah yield not to the horrors of despair,

We yet may meet again in the blissful realms above
And find our paradise in endless love

---

And thou my sister whose heroic name
Partakes the glory of a Charrelle's fame,
Console my yet the love receive each sigh
Thou best can pour the balm of sympathy
Emma, a last farewell, my guards I view Emma, my sister, all the world adieu —

---

Lines written by Wm Cooper, not yet published

The poplars are fell'd then adieu to the shade
And the soft whispering breeze of the cool colonade
The winds play no longer and sing thro' the leaves
Nor the oar on its surface their image receives Twelve months have elapsed since I last took a view Of the fields that I loved, and the banks where they <sup>grow</sup>
Now behold on their sides in the grasp they are laid
And I sit on those trees, under which I have strayed
The blackbird has sought out another retreat
Where the hazles afford him a screen from the heat

And those scenes where his notes have oft charmed me <sup>before</sup>
Will resound with his slow moving ditty no more Thus my fugitive years are all passing away
And I must myself lie as lowly as they
With a turf at my breast and a stone at my head
Ere another such grave has grown up in its stead.

The change both my heart and my fancy employs,
I reflect on the frailty of man and his joys,
Short-lived as we are, yet our pleasures we see,
Have a still shorter date and die sooner than we.

---

Lines placed above the spring at Gilsland - 1796

Oh! pause awhile where thou art,
That drink'st this healing stream
Yer's compassion on thy heart, Diffused its Heavenly beam —

Think on the wretch whose distant lot
Its friendly aid denies,
Think how in some neglected spot
He — unregarded lies —

Hither the neglected stranger bring
And ease his heartfelt woe,

So may thy bounty like this spring
In genial currents flow —

So be thy years from want and pain
And pining sickness free
And thou that debt from Heav'n obtain The poor man owes to thee —

---

A Song <sup>Sung on</sup> Mr Pitts Birth Day - 1802

If hush'd the loud whirlwind that ruffled the deep,
The sky is no longer dark tempests reform;
When our perils are past, shall our gratitude sleep?
No - here's to the pilot that weathered the storm!

At the footstool of power let flattery fawn;
Let faction her idols extol to the skies;
So virtue, in humble retirement with draws,
Unblam'd may the accents of gratitude rise.

And shall not His memory to Britain be dear,
Whose example <sup>with every</sup> all nations behold,

A Statesman, unbiass'd by interest or fear,
By power uncorrupted, untainted by gold?

Who, when terror and doubt through the universe righ'd,
While rapine and treason their standards unroll'd,
The heart and the hopes of his country maintained,
And our king down preserv'd midst the wreck of the world

Unheeding, unthankful we bask in the blaze,
While the beams of the sun in full majesty shine,
When he sinks into twilight, with fondness we gaze,
And mark the mild lustre that gilds his decline.

So Pitt, when the course of thy greatness is o'er,
Thy talents, thy virtues we fondly recall!
Now justly we prize thee, when lost we deplore;
Admir'd in thy zenith, but lov'd in thy fall!

O! take, then - for dangers by wisdom repell'd,
For evils by courage and constancy brav'd - O! take, for a Throne by thy counsels upheld,
The thanks of a people thy firmness has sav'd!

And O! if again the wide whirlwind should rise!
The dawning of peace should fresh darkness deform
The agents of the good, and the fears of the wise Shall turn to the pilot that weather'd the storm!

The Nun - an Elegy

With each perfection dawning on her mind,
All beauty's treasure opening on her cheek
Each flattering hope subdu'd each wish resign'd, Does gay Ophelia this lone Mansion seek.

Say, gentle maid, what prompts thee to forsake
The paths, thy birth and fortune strew with flowers?
Through nature's kind endearing ties to break,
And waste in cloister'd walls thy pensive hours?

Let sober thought restrain thine ering zeal,
That guides thy footsteps to the vestal gate,
Lest thy soft heart (this friendship bids reveal)
Like mine unblest, should mourn like mine too late

Does some angelic lonely whispering voice,
Some sacred impulse or some dream divine Approve the dictates of thy early choice?
Approach with confidence the awful shrine

Thou kneeling at yon' altars marble base (While streams of rapture from thine eyelids steal And smiling heaven illumines thy soul with grace)
Pronounce the vow thou never canst repeat.

Yet if misled by false entitled friends,
Who say - "That peace with all her comely train
From starry regions to this clime descends, Softens ev'ry frown, & softens ev'ry pain:

"That vests tread contentment, flowery lawn,
"Approv'd of innocence, by health carest;
"That robes in colours bright by fancy drawn,
"Celestial hope sits smiling at their breast;"

Suspect their siren song and artful style.
Their pleasing sounds some treacherous thought conceal Full oft does pride with sainted voice beguile
And sordid interest wears the mask of real.

A tyrant abbot here perchance may reign
Who, fond of power, affects the imperial nod,
Looks down disdainful on her female train
And rules the cloister with an iron rod.

Reflection sickens at the life long tie,
Black glancing memory acts her busy part
Its charms the world, unfolds to fancy's eye
And sheds allurement on the wishful heart.

Lo! discord enters at the sacred porch,
Rage in her frown, and terror on her crest;
E'en at the hallow'd lamps she lights her torch,
And holds it flaming to each virgin's breast.

But since the legends of monastic bliss
By fraud are fabled and by youth believ'd Unbought experience learn from my distress,
Oh! mask my lot and be no more deceived.

Three lustrous spheres with hasty wings were fled
When I was torn from every weeping friend

A thoughtless victim to the temple led,
And (blush ye parents) by a Father's hand.

Yet then what solemn scenes deceived my choice
The pealing organs animating sound,
The coral virgin's captivating voice
The blaring altar and the priests around;

The train of youths array'd in purest white,
Who scatter'd myrtles as I pass'd along;

The thousand lamps that pour'd a flood of light
The kiss of peace from all the vestal throng.

The golden censer toss'd with graceful hand
Whose fragrant breath arabian odour shed:
Of meek-eyed novices the wrbling band
With blooming chaplets wove around their head.

- My willing soul was caught in raptures flame
While sacred ardour glow'd in every vein:
Methought applauding angels sung my name
And Heaven's unsullied glories gilt the fane.

This temporary transport soon expired,
My drooping heart confess'd a dreadful void:
E'er since, alas! abandon'd uninspir'd,
I tread this dome to misery allied.

No wakening joy informs my sullen breast
Through opening skies no radiant seraphs smile
No saint descends to sooth my soul to rest,
No dreams of bliss the dreary night beguiles.

Her haggard Discontent still haunts my view;
The sombre genius rears in ev'ry place,
Arrays each virtue in the darkest hue,
Chills every prayer, and cancels ev'ry grace.

I meet her ever in the cheerless cell,
The gloomy grotto and unsocial wood;
I hear her ever in the midnight bell,
The hollow gale and hoarse surrounding flood.

This caus'd a Mother's tender tears to flow,
(The sad remembrance time shall ne'er erase)
When having seal'd the irrevocable vow
I hasten'd to receive her last embrace.

Full well she then passag'd my watch'd fate
Th' unhappy moments of each future day
When lock'd within this terror-shedding grate
My joy-deserted soul would pine away.

Yet never did her maternal voice unfold
This cloister'd scene in all its horror dress Nor did she then my trembling steps withhold When here I enter'd a reluctant guest -

Ah could she view her only child betray'd?
And let submission on her love prevail?
Th' unfeeling priest why did she not upbraid?
Forbid the vow and rend the hooding veil.

Alas! she might not. Her reluctant Lord
Had seal'd her lips and chid her streaming tear
So anguish in her breast conceal'd its load
And all the Mother sunk in deep despair.

But thou who own'st a Father's sacred name
What act compell'd thee to this ruthless deed
What crime had forfeited my filial claim
And giv'n (oh blasting thought!) thy heart to bleed.
If then thine injur'd child deserves thy care
Oh haste and bear her from this lonesome gloom
In vain - no words can sooth his rigid ear
And Gallias loss have rivetted my doom.
Ye cloister'd fair ye censure breathing saints Suppress your taunts and learn at length to spare Though mid these <sup>holy</sup> walls I vent my plaints
And give to sorrow what is due to prayer.

I fled not to this mansions deep recess
To veil the blushes of a guilty shame
The tenor of an ill spent life redress
And snatch from infamy a sinking name.

Yet let me to my fate submissive bow
From fatal symptoms if I right believe
This stream of phylia has not long to flow
This voice to marmur and this breast to heave

Ah when extended on the untimely bier
So yonder vault this form shall be convey'd Thou'lt not refuse to shed one grateful tear
And breathe the requiem to my fleeting shade.

With pious footsteps join the sable train
As through the lengthning Ile they take their way
A glimmering taper at thy hand sustain Thy soothing voice attune the funeral lay.

Behold the minister who lately gave
The sacred veil, in garb of mournful hue (More friendly office) bending o'er my grave
And sprinkling my remains with hallow'd dew

As o'er the corse he strews the rattling dust
The sternest heart will raise compassionate sigh
Even then no longer to his child unjust
The tears may trickle from a Father's eye -

---

An old Scotch Song on the Battle of Flodden Fought. A.D. 1513.

I have heard of a liltin<sup>1</sup>, at our ewes milking, Lasses a liltin<sup>1</sup>, before the break of day;
But now there's a moaning on ilka green loaning
That our braw forresters are a wede away. 4

At bougths, in the morning, mae blyth lads are scorning,<sup>2</sup>
The lasses are lonely, downie, and wae;
Nae daffins, nae gabbin, but sighing and sabbing;
Ilka one lifts her leglen, and hies away. 8

At e'en at the glomming,<sup>3</sup> mae swunkies are roaming, Mony stacks, with the lasses, at bogle to play
But ilka one sits dreary, lamenting her deary,
The Flowers of the Forest that are a wede away. 12

At harrest, at the shearing,<sup>4</sup> mae youngsters are jeering,
The bansters are rumbled, lyart, and grey.

At a Fair, or a preaching, mae wooing, mae fleeching,
Since our braw forresters are a wede away. 16

O dool for the, order, sent our lads to the boorder:

The English for aimes by quill gat the day.

The Flowers of the Forrest, that ay shone the foremost;

The prime of our land, lies cald in the clay. 20

Will hear nae mair liltin<sup>g</sup>, at ours ewes milking,

The Women and bairns are dowie, and wae.

Syking and moaning, on ilka green loaning.

Since our braw forristers are a wede away. 24

An Explanation of the Scotch Words

V. 1 Liltin<sup>g</sup>. Singing in a brisk lively manner.

V. 3. Ilka Every

V. 3 Loaning. A little common, near country villages, where Cows are Milked.

V. 4 Braw. Brave. Finely appearlled.

V. 4 A' wede All cut away.

Shakespear. Rich. III

A' wedder out of his proud adversaries.

V. 5 Bought. The little fold, where the ewes are enclosed at milking time

V. 5. Scorning jeering the lasses about their sweethearts
To scorn is often now used in this sense in the N. th

V. 6 Dowie, melancholy Wae sorrowful.

V. 7 Daffin, waggery. Gablin, prattling partly Tabbie, sobbing

V. 8 Tha' ane, every one. Leglen, a milking pail with one leg or handle.

The hasty, silent, and disconsolate departure of the Milk-maids, is natural and affecting.

V. 9 Glomung. At even, in the twilight, or evening gloom.

V. 10 Swankies, young Countrymen

This is an old English word derived from the Saxon Swang, a country Swain.

V. 11 Bogle, Hobgoblin, Spectre. Bogle Bo about the Stack is the diversion of young folks in a Stack-yard.

V. 12 Dooary, Sad

V. 13 Bansters, Binders up of the sheaves of corn

Runkled, wrinkled. Lyart, Hoary. The binders were now all old men

V. 14 Fleeching, Flattering

V. 15 Dool, grief.

V. 18 Vid. Stanza 473. et seq.

V. 19 Ay. Ever. always.

V. 20 Could. Cold. There was hardly a genteel Family in Scotland, but what lost one, or more, of their nearest relations in this battle.

V. 22 Bairns. Children. - The tune of this Song, called, The Flowers of the Forrest, is a pretty melancholy one

---

Mr Philips to the Earl of Dorset -

Copenhagen, March 9th 1709

From frozen climes, and endless tracts of snow,
From streams which northern winds forbid to flow,
What present shall the muse to Dorset bring,
Or how, so near the pole, attempt to sing?

The hoary winter here conceals from sight
All pleasing objects which to our invite.
The hills and dales, and the delightful woods,
The flow'ry plains, and silver-streaming floods
By snow disguised in bright confusion lie
And with one dazzling waste fatigue the eye.
No gentle-breathing breeze prepares the spring,

No birds within the desert region sing:

The Ships unmov'd the boisterous winds defy,

While rattling charriots o'er the ocean fly,

The vast Leviathan wants room to play,

And spout his waters in the face of day

The starving wolver along the main sea sprawl,

And to the moon in icy valleys howl.

O'er many a shining leagun the level main,

Here spreads itself into a glassy plain:

There solid billows of enormous size,

Mts of green ice, in wild disorder rise.

And yet but lately have I seen, ev'n here,

The winter in a lovely dress appear.

See yet the clouds let fall the treasur'd snow,

Or winds began through hairy skins to blow,

At evening a keen eastern breeze arose,

And the descending rain unsoften'd froze;

Soon as the silent shades of night with drew,

The ruddy morn disclos'd at once at view

The face of nature in a rich disguise,

And brighten'd ev'ry object to my eyes:

For ev'ry shrub, and ev'ry blade of grass,

And ev'ry pointed thorn, seem'd wrought in glass

[Faint, illegible handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

address'd to Miss Seward on her Monodies On Major Andre and Cap: Cook—
As Britain mourn'd with all a mother's pain
Two Sons, two Gallant Sons, ignobly slain Mild Cook by savage fury robb'd of breath and Martial Andre doom'd to baser death
The Goddess, plung'd in grief too vast to speak
Fid in her sobe her tear disfigur'd cheek
The sacred name, with sympathetic care,
Survey'd the noble mourners dumb despair, While, from the Choir the sign of pity took The muse of Tragedy thus warmly spoke,
"Take injured Parents all we can bestow To soothe thy Care & mitigate thy woe," Bending, to Earth, the kind Enthusiast came and vild her heavenly power with Seward's name Then - with such plaintive sighs,
She struck the chords of her pathetic Lyre
The weeping Goddess owns the blest relief and mildly listens with subsiding grief
Her lov'dest daughters lend a willing ear
Honoring the latent Muse with many a tear
For valiant Sons, who in their wily vein
Felt the strong pathos of the Magic strain
Wilep the enchanting Lyre by glory thrung Enjoying the dead: who wore so sweetly sung.

---

In answer to Miss Seward, on her sending to the author requesting to know, if he was the Author of the above lines—

Sweet Sister of the tuneful Art
Forgive a dull reply,
Which must the simplest truth impart and say that I am I!
Lest dear to me the tuneful praise,
Of Son or of Lam,
Than your sweet flattery which says
You wish me what I am!

William Hayley
Written on a Fan belonging to Miss S. S.— Like Sultan's handkerchiefs were Ladies Fans, Dropt at whose feet they mean to bless Got fancy's warmest most luxuriant plans Could paint my transports warm as this But when thro' accident the pledge I hold Engag'd by Annetta's Eyes
No Value's but as useless ore to gold
And I ~~rest~~ the worthless prize

---

Extempore lines address'd to Lady Brown
When I was young and debonnaire,
The bonniest nymph to me was fair
But now I'm old and wiser grown,
The fairest Nymph to me is Brown.

---

Extempore lines written on a Charter of one of the Churches of Cambridge who was appointed on account of a vote he gave according to the advice of the Rector.

A singing man and cannot sing!
Come justify your Patrons bounty Give us a Song - "Excuse me Sir, My Voice is in another County."

Epigram -

No wonder that wisdom & judgment profound
In Oxford & Cambridge so greatly abound
When such numbers being hither a little each day
And there are but a few who take any away.

To a Lady wearing Orange Ribband on her breast on King Williams Birth day -

Thou little Toy where's the jest
Of bearing Orange at thy breast
When that same breast too plainly shews
The whiteness of the rebel rose -

Epigram

Says Giles "my wife & I are two yet Faith I know not why six" Says Jack "you're true if I speak right
This one & you're a Cypher"

On Miss F wearing powder.

If age at thy touch bid his curls rise
And feel every limb with fresh vigour rise
If religion from Heaven each thought would disperse
To dwell on thy breast mid perfume of bliss
From Nature ah why then ungratefully see You conquer mankind, but <sup>you</sup> conquer by her Oh think not the aid, thy lov'd waves may bring Can add one perfume to the roses of Spring
No think not that art, or skill can bestow
A blush to the peach or a whiteness to snow
No longer dear Maid use those beauties so ill

Left in Miss F's prayer book -

To paint some heavenly form when Raphael lives and bids an angel from the canvass rise
With just that smile he bids his features glow
With just that grace his auburn tresses flow,
~~Such the sweet innocence his look displays~~
Such the mild ~~his~~ bloom his youthful cheek arrays
Such the sweet innocence his look displays:

Forgive me heaven if while thy altar I pay,
My wandering thoughts to you fair creature stray
If calm and languid my devotions rise, While earth affords so fair a Paradise -

On a Rose - by Miss F -

Ah poor forsaken Rose
Wilt thou drop thy head
For all the sweets thy bloom disclose are thrown away when dead.

Learn hence ye fair, ye vain, ye gay,
That life is but a flower,
Beauty like it must soon decay,
For prove thou every hour.

On Miss A. F. —

Oh Mary when on me you roll
Those eyes whose rays so sweetly rove
Alternate passions shake my soul
I die with awe, I glow with love

A thousand charms that love command and each displays some novel grace
The whiteness of thy well turned hand
The angel sweetness of thy face —

Those cheeks where smiles perpetual play
Those lips that with vermilion die
Those lips where wanton Cupid's stray That shape of perfect symmetry — and twice a thousand charms unseen a throb of anxious joy impart

But oh sweet girl thine dwells in this One that I most adore — Thy Heart —

On Miss F. F. —

— In thee unite each rival grace
Dawn in thine eyes & wanton on thy face
Captive I bend to beauty's bright enthral Health decks thy cheek while virtue arm's thy all springs fair blossoms all the pride of May Riغن in thy smile & in thy bosom play Deck'd with such charms each youth thy slave Shall prove Shall melt with joy and pant to gain thy love

Epigram on Mr Seath —

John run so long and run so fast
No wonder he run out at last
He run in debt and then to pay
He distanced all and run away —

On C. H. —

Fair as the beauteous queen of smiling days
Whene'er she walks the graces lead the way,
In artless rings her glossy tresses flow and on her cheeks the blushing roses glow.
Round her sweet mouth a thousand Cupid's arms,
In her bright eyes are thousands more divine,
No need of words each gesture is a grace, all nature smiling on her matchless face, around her form, the graces wanton rove and hail fair Charlotte as the Queen of Love —

The choice — by a Lady.

Let the bold youth who aims to win me, know
I hate a fool, a clown, a sot, or beaver
I loathe a slover, I despise a wit,
I scorn a Coxcomb: and I fear a wit
Let him be very rich and very kind Charmed with my virtues to my Talus blind Let him be gentle; brave; good humour'd gay let him in smaller things with pride obey yet wise enough in great ones to command Produce me but the youth & here's my hand

Written Extempore by a Gentleman on reading the foregoing Lines

I... forbear, not think to be Wear to a man from blemish free,
Since the examples are so rare,
Of a compleatly perfect pair —

An Message

Tom prais'd his friend who chang'd his state
For binding fast himself and Kate,

In union so divine,

"Wedlock's the end of life" he cry'd,
"Go true alas!" said Jack and sigh'd.
"I'll be the end of mine."

Written by Pope with Dr Chesterfield's Pencil
Accept a miracle instead of wit,
See two dull lines by Stan hopes pencil writ —

An a Lady weeping - Miss M. Farrer.

Written by Mr. Brower

Poor heart thou never read of Ope this time
"To err is human, to forgive, divine"
'Tis man's defect, that handles of their fate
They miss the season and are wise too late
Two fountains rising from a Lady's eyes
Occur'd is he who made those fountains rise
Nur may the maid a single look bestow
Nur may that man a single favor know
From her - But stop - Consider - be content
If an affront was given - 'twere not meant -

Nature and Fortune to the Park of Chesterfield

Nature and Fortune blithe and gay

To pass an hour or two In politic mood agreed to play
At what shall this man do?

Com I'll be judge then, Fortune cries
And therefore must be blind
Then whisk'd a napkin round her eyes and tied it fast behind.

Nature had now prepared her list
Of names on scraps of leather
Which roll'd she gave them each a twist and hussel'd them together

Thus mixt, which ever came to hand
She very sorely drew Then bade her sister give command
For what that man should do at length when Stanhope's name was come Dame Nature smil'd & cried now tell me sister this man's doom, and what shall him betide

That man said Fortune shall be one blast both by you and me Nay then, quoth Nature, let's have done sister I'm sure you see

Written on a Window underneath a box against matrimony

The Lady who this resolution took wrote it on Glass to show it might be broken

Song -

O! Love than better far to rest
Who hast within my harmless breast
So home the sickning arrow sent Kilivie a poor unwary maid
Who fondly gazing has betray'd
Not know what soft delusion meant Since custom cruel to the fair Forbids any passion to declare Assist blind god of soft desire To thy omnipotence I kneel Let him my secret anguish feel and burn for me with equal fire Shun if the lovely youth appear By talon inclined to Hope and Fear and tenderly his passion moves
My heart shall flutter to his sighs
With gentle looks I'll meet his eyes and never never cease to love -

Why close still these jealous hearts and why that falling tear
The heart that to a thousand beats
To one may be sincere.

To softer returns milder reign
The sultry sun more glow
And chilling dews and beating rain Give fierceness to the rose

Then weep not tho' my hearts inclin'd
To every face that's ours
I wander to return more kind and change but to be true -

Quadrille

Danger lovely my nymph to hear the back of cards
Who draws instructions from a game of cards
What the quadrille perplex you, thence is shown How hard the fate of her who plays alone
But would you then consent to be a wife
Think first do think you play the cards for life Should sordid friends controul your own good will Beware the pitched fate of forced spadille Should men by grandeur shew y<sup>r</sup> heart to find
The crop fish then denote the purse p<sup>r</sup>ond<sup>r</sup>mind
Then pass by with a nod a far better sure
It is by some kind friend to play obscure
And he dear girl who does your charms adore
Now asks your leave, oh let him soon say more

When now no longer starting fears
With boding ills disturb my peace;
Now love and duty dry my tears
And bid my former terrors cease
Ah! where my love, ah whither fly
In search of bliss, I'd fain impart?
If thou forsak'st me how may I
Hope cherish in this bleeding heart

Thy daily sorrow, nightly cure,
Each word, each look, to love I gave;
Love drove away the pined despair,
And flew to snatch me from the grave
Thou wherefore now, ah wherefore fly,
In search of bliss I'd fain impart?
If love forsakes me, how may I
Hope cherish in this bleeding heart

But if deceiv'd, not love had caught
In what so well with love agrees To life, ah! wherefore am I brought,
To perish by a worse disease?
Ah! wherefore, love, or whither fly
In search of bliss I'd fain impart?
If thou forsak'st me how may I
Hope cherish in this bleeding heart

The sole, the sovereign balm I find,
Dear emblem of my love is this Thou bear'st his features, but his mind
Ah! who shall paint its energy
Thou wherefore love, or whither fly
In search of bliss, I'd fain impart
If thou forsak'st me how may I
Hope cherish in this bleeding heart

Song

Shut every sleep! oh do not fly!
Bind thy soft filllet on his eye,
That o'er each grace my own may rove
And grant my joy lip, hapless love!

For when he lifts those shading lids,
His twinkling glances such bliss forbid;
Thou easy sleep oh do not fly,
But bind thy filllet on his eye -

Lines sent to Mr Cozway while L. J. C. D. was sitting to him

Cozway, my Emma sits to you,
And that colouring may be true,
This nosegay on the pallet place,
Replete with all the tints that grace
The various beauties of her face;
Her skin the snowdrops whiteness shows
Her blushing cheek the opening rose;
Her eyes the modest violet speak,
Whose silken fringes kiss her cheek;
The spicy pink in morning dew,
Presents her fragrant lips to view;
The glossy curls that crown her head,
Paint from the gilt cup of the mad.
Long may her image fill my eye
When these fair emblems fade & die;
Plac'd on my faithful breast and grove
'Tis Cozway paints the Queen of love

Anna to Pactus

1

Grieve not my Pactus, for that fate
Affection would divide
Our love shall bliss unhop'd create, and fate itself decide Fear not because a tyrant's arm
Suspends the threatened blow,
Love gives even death a power to charm
Which none but Lovers know -

2

Barrick'd the body far may be Reluctant; but the soul,
What Love can banish? what decree
Subject it to controul?
Distance, that object may displace
The lover holds most dear;
But Love overlaps all time and space and brings that object near

3

Death may our hearts divide awhile,
In seeming sleep to tie;
But love on death itself can smile
For love can never die.
The power of Love & Fate combined,
It rises far above, For of immortal is the mind,
For mortal must be Love -

Lines on the revolution of a Lady's ornaments
First "On her breast a sparkling crop, she wore",
Which only hinted what we should adore
The crop remov'd a heart appears to deck;
The virgin beauties of her snow white neck
In this attractions power is well display'd;
All hearts she draws all hearts adore the maid.
The Anchor next gives expectation scope,
And to each ardent lover holds forth hope,
Which Hope the pendant Key shall realize
For who need now despair of Paradise?

The Absent Poets Prayer -

O ye Gods who live and sit at rest Attend to hear my wishes
I'm in a hurry to be blest
So pray be expeditious

Grant me - let's see now if you please
This very moment grant
Plague take it how vexatious tis
I can't think what I want -

An Advertisement

A Lady's Heart on Marlbro' downs was stoln toker day
By a polite young highway man who gallop'd swift away
This heart was richly studd'd over & graciously enough
With modesty, good sense, & truth, & such old fashioned stuff
Such as the dames in scriptures were some thousand yeares ago Without hypocrisy or Pride or Pasion for a heare
The passions in good order rang'd with reason at their head
But every childish thought to flight & strike all fallly dead
Such is the heart thro' lost who can from grief refrain Ten kisses she will give the man who brings it home again
If oppos'd to be sold or pawn'd pray stop it if you can
It being of no use at all to any other man -

Lines written on a very old Glasp, of Sir A. Achucivis -

Faith Glasp, thou mortal art, as well as I Tho' none can tell which of us first shall die
Answer'd Intempore by Dr Swift
We both are mortal; but thou fainter creature, May'st die like me, by chance, but not by nature

Lines to Lady Fryconell by Lord Granby -

Envy (that loves not merit) ne'er will spare
A person so perfect or a face so fair;
Let prudence then der all your states preside and sage directions all your actions guide Know and reflect ev' yet it be too late
You stand this moment on the brink of fate
By fashion blinded and by folly led
The paths of Ruin & of shame you tread;
Reflect - long years of sorrow must repay
The short liv'd pleasure of one glutting day
Happy and young & in Fryconell blest
By strangers honour'd & by friends caress'd
How will they mourne when that thy name appear Join'd to a Zaresvenus or a Legion's
How will they mourne to hear most envy tale
From what a glorious height of bliss you fell Lovely & lov'd till one ill-fated hour
Of beauty and of virtue nipt the flower
What charms can you in empty flattery find
To shake your virtue or your judgment blind
Light, thoughtless, foolish, he has no pretence
To merit, fashion, elegance, or sense.
Shun him not only him but all the rest
Who'd plant a dagger on thy youthful breast Guard from their art they yet unspotted fame
And spare thy glorious Fathers honor'd name Written by an Officer to a Lady
Take heed fair Ladies and avoid with care
A scarlet coat and military hair Believe not the amorous brittle vows we make Nor the strong promises we intend to break Gaze not with transport on our vain parade
Our glittering shoulder knot & smart cockade
Free as the air inconstant as the wind
Fasting of all but are to noise confin'd
But like the gay butterfly that sipps sweets
Of every fair & lovely flower it creeps -

Happy he who views your Eye
But happier he who for you sighs
Still happier far who tells his pain
And sighing makes you sigh again. —

On seeing a Gentleman in a Hebra Coat —
Condemn not our sex for ill task in their days,
Nor for faintly compare them to Gales;
Tho' we vie with the Buds & the flowers of the field
We ne'er sought to out rival an Vase. —

L'Amour Simide —

If in that breast so good so pure Compassion ever lov'd to dwell
Pity the sorrows I endure
The cause — I dare not must not tell
The grief that on my quiet prayers,
That ~~renders~~ checks my heart, that checks my tongue
I fear will last me all my life
But feel it will not last me long.

On Miss Fury — X

To look like an angle the Ladies believe Is the greatest of blessings that Nature can give But faith you're quite wrong for fair Nymphs & a Fury
The blessing's far greater to look like a Fury —

Sonnet

While prest with woes from which it cannot flee
My fancy sinks, & slumber seals my Eyes,
Her spirit harkens in my dreams to rise
Who was in life but as a dream to me,
As a dream vast, so wide no Eye can see How far its sense wading limit lies,
I follow her quick; but ah! she flies!
Our distance widening by turn fate decree
Fly not from me kind shadow, I exclaim:
She, with sad eyes, that her soft thoughts reveal
And seem'd to say, "Sober as my fold design"<sup>13</sup>
Still flies: — I call her, but her holy name Dues on my tongue I wake & feel

Not even one short delusion may be mine. —

To Miss H. G. in Sorow —

In Spring when show'ry vapours ebb
The suns bright beams appears
As now sweet Henrietta's eyes
Each dazzling thro' a tear
But, as Sol's rays reflected shine
And fire's heat impart,
Thro' pearly tears those eyes divine
Would melt the coldest heart. —

Song on an Elegant entertainment given at the Bowling Green Mar. 22<sup>d</sup> 1775. —

Could I as I wish give just tribute of praise
To a festival held to other day at the Green Appollo descending should yield on the ways
And each Muse have a fit of hystericks & spleen I'd sing in such strains now with elegant ease
The Queen of the feast dealt her favours to all
The shade of each bard sh<sup>d</sup> applaud with a stave
And the spirit of poetry set up a squall

The room was well fill'd tho' no crowding past
For politeness her care & protection did grant
Good humour'd attention with studious care E'ery wish did prevent & divine w'ey want
No noise struck the ear but the buzz of surprise Produced by the pleasure which w'ey one found No heat was there felt but what beam'd from
Of predominant <sup>the Eyes</sup> Beauty which flash'd all around

How oft have I gaz'd on an evening sky
How often the stars have I laboird to count
But their numbers & brightness so dazzled my eye
My arithmetic never could find the amount
Even so with the Nymphs at the green did I gaze Whose eyes shone as bright as the twinkles above Like Ibe each look'd & like her did prepare
The celestial neston of pleasure & love.

On the elegant side board in order sublime
Proud Gallias eek clusters transparently shone

In the various feasts of our various Clime
Fire and Sugar had smok'd what yet had begun Horn & Chickens combin'd the nice Table to deck and from each hungry fair did attention bespeak but what was the eed of the Ham to her Chicks
Or the white of the Chicken to that of her neck

Alas the fair Madam that happen'd prove Whisk to others she knows with such grace to impart May heaven for ever for ever remove Every care from her brow, & each grief from her heart
And should Envy attempt to cast any disgrace
On so perfect a feast with satyrical Verse May her snakes turn upon her, hiss full in her face and so shame the Malevolent beladame to silence.

Made by Mr Mellish - March 1775

On the Blues leaving York

Have'n prosper long the noble Troops
Brave Granby does Command
For sure no General ever out'd,
A more illustrious Band
With mournful hearts we still bewail
That melancholy day
When from York Town in graceful sort
Those Heroes march'd away
Oh! with what anguish every Belle Their going did deplore
Ah me! each weeping beauty cry'd
We ne'er shall see them more
What pen can paint that wretched night
Sighing, and wakeful slumber;
That night before the fatal day
Those well lov'd Heroes went.
Then gallant French, too griev'd to sleep Arose at early day
And with a melancholy pace
To Salvins bent his way and thence he cry'd adieu my fair Alas how hard to part
But though I cannot stay my self

I have a constant heart - But see round lovely Danby's house
How eagerly they press
That they with one dear parting look;
Their raptur'd eyes may bless
Their Vernon for most in the throng
A gentle courtly youth
In plaintive accents breathes his flame
And vows eternal truth
Behold his soft, his winning grace
His bosom heaves with sighs While portly Steward standing near Turns up his brimful eyes
But let us leave this mournful band
For see where Bulstrode stands
Them, to fair Hobson's friendly dome
A wapping Cupid guides
Ah hapless maid, what now avails
Thy long triumphant reign
Since you alas! must lose the youth
You took such pains to gain
Alas! how many costly meals
Have here been thrown away Nor love, nor hospitable treats
Can force the swain to stay
There sprightly Adams mourning sets,
With spleen and grief oppress'd
By Sabine late a well bred youth
Distinguish'd from the rest
I'm richer Croft, for her he left Both rivals for his heart Sometime the precious Gem they should But Croft soon lost his part Clara's more conquering charms had long Finished the doubtful strife
And she, ah too believing maid Believ'd him fix'd for life.
Smart little Food like her laments
The dear her favourite became
And who can wonder she should mourn
The top of Clithrons
But cruel fate deaf to their prayers

Regardless of their sighs Recall'd the blessing it but lent
And blasted all their joys
The trumpets sound, the standards spread
The troops in order plac'd
While in their proper ranks, the swains
The gay procepsion grac'd
But first they bid a last adieu
To every weeping fair
And swear no other beauties should Their constant passions share
With many words of softest sound
They vow'd they ne'er would change
They ne'er could meet with bolder nymphs
To tempt their hearts to change
Solomon & slow the music plays
They march reluctant on,
The Gazing Maids at once exclaim
Ah now ah now they're gone
Each fair one, for one sad glance
All pale and trembling stands
And as they pass and wave their swords
To wave their lily hands
If fame says true almost three hours
The constant Swains did wait
Three hours! to Lovers half an age
Did mournful woe prevail
Meanwhile the now forsaken nymphs
A live long wick did grieve E'en till another regiment came Their sorrows to relieve These troops could not with grandeur
Get still they soon found grace
And in the hearts which them were void
Fill'd up the happy space
Now heaven preserve our noble King
And send he long may reign and grant that love may never give Our maidens too much pain
For men will change and so sh<sup>d</sup> they Shan ne'er make love a joke
But treat it as it really is
That is to say a joke

If love a sweet passion, ah! whence comes my pain
Ah whence if divine my despair?
From whence this tumultuous war in my brain
In my bosom this pressure of care?

Tis to me all the pleasures that love e'er has brought But many the pangs that it brings
Its pleasures, tis true are with extacy fraught,
But those are deep loaded with stings

How fleeting alas! are the captives it gives?
Of its joys how short liv'd are the date?
With a poor dream of bliss it the moment deceives
And the soul wakes to poignant regret.

The pains of long absence what pencil can paint?
To its tortures all else is tranquille
And the wretch unregarded may utter his plaint While he sees even pity is still

Nor the sigh that speaks loudly the pangs of his breast,
Nor the tear that bedews his pale cheeks,
A shadow of comfort can ever impart,
Or peace to his soul e'er can speak -

Then why busy thought would you wish to prolong
A life doom'd to misery and care?
With a thousand vain wishes my bosom you throng
But all must be clos'd in despair.

Then welcome the Gloom that overclouds my shooting
To hope I will now bid adieu
May fates swiftest Lightning soon snatch me away
And shift the dark scene from my view -

Charades

1

My first in stately triumph bore
Kings & Princes in days of yore
My second is an only Child,
As one by fond Mama quite spoil'd
My whole so humble is & true
It never fails to kiss your shoe. —

2<sup>d</sup>

My first is in winter - a warmth you desire
In the earth you my second may touch
Both together - are cold yet appear all on fire Which has puzzled Philosophers much. —

3<sup>d</sup>

My first is misery's extreme
My second's sure to feel it
My whole's an antidote that owns Peculiar charms to heal it. —

4th

My first is a river in the North
My second an Equestrian exercise
My whole (when filled) what entertains
Groot companies. —

5th

My first a part of our Police
My second an emblem of Captivity
My whole an appendage to my first. —

6th

When my first arrives (as it does at The close of every day) my second is employ'd & few can rest without my third. —

7th

My first in rains flowry grove
Was stol'n from Adams side
But this my second makes complete
In all the vale beside My whole the fair sex long display'd
For use as well as shew
Tho' she who from my first was made
This ornament never knew. —

8th

If you were the first & I were the whole
My second might go where he pleases
Then I should be bless'd & you'd be curs'd
And the whole of our lives passion can
My first we enjoy when we meet an old friend
My second's a dish that most folks commend
My whole (tho' a little obscured) his name
And sunk in its bustle a much brighter name. —

10th

My first an Insect
My second a wild Beast
My third nothing at all. —

11th

My first is where the King resides
My second traces the wind's tides
My whole was practis'd ages past
And ever will while time shall last. —

12th

My first is a source of both sorrow & joy
My second you never can do
My whole to engage is some Ladies employ But secur'd in a moment by you. —

13th

My first is to unite
My second a security
My whole an ancient institution. —

14th

My first you must follow what way you chuse
In my second a Lock you view
My whole if stationed & selected with taste
May be enbied and ornament you. —

15th

If Ladies ye my first require
I'm offspring of a stormy sire
My second is an April morn
Hangs pendant on the budding thorn
In innocence and beauty too
My whole, ye fair resembles you. —

16th

My first is Sordid
My second an appendage to physick
My whole adds to Harmony. —

17th

When you stole my first
I took my second
May you ever possess my third
18th
My first a Column will expound
My second on a Watcher found
My whole's when learned pieces rot Dissid neglected and forgot —

19th

My first is half of what you'll want
But others must procure
My second if you're indispos'd
A Doctor will ~~procure~~ procure My whole's a pleasing beverage
With poor folks seldom seen It's said the head ache it will cure and dissipate the spleen —

20th

My first is to multiply
My second we ought to avoid My whole is more generally offered than accepted —

21st

Adapted by Lord Abington to L<sup>d</sup> Derby —
My first's like your ladyship's eyes so bright That it adds to my second additional light and my whole is seventh from morning till night —

22nd

My love for you can never have my 1st can never be my second and will always be my third —

23rd

When my second is oppress'd by my first there is nought can relieve me but my whole —

24th

My first is in the Chickens breast
My second in the wave
My third in suit of scarlet dress
For which his life he gave —

25th

My first oft hangs upon a lady's arm yet gives a jealous husband no alarm
My second doth the place of feet supply
To those who neither walk nor run nor fly My third's the rival of each empty boast but where it's most despis'd it suffers most —

26th

My first from coy and cruel maid you fear
My second shun or else destruction's near
The whole's a blank devoid of all pretence
To art or artifice, to wit or sense —

27th

What I do, what I do not & what you are

28th

Adapted by Mr Fox to the Duke of North I'll employ my first in praise of my second if you'll give me my third —

29th

My First is equality
My second inferiority
My third superiority —

30th

I can seldom obtain my first
Who labours for my second and few like to do my third —

31st

My first is of no use without my second & my third is to be seen every day in St James's Street —

32nd

My first is wise and foolish
My second the physicians study My third the pleasant ornament of a house —

33rd

My first communicates to the human soul joy & sorrow, love & hate, hope & dis-pair my second retains what is gross & rejects what is delicate My third is reflective —

34th

My third is under my second & sur-rounds my first.

35th

My first is a prop my second is a prop and my third is a prop —

36th

My second is a Man of might who when he is in luck may do my first My third bestows equal pleasure on him and a part of the realm. —

37th

My first is equal, my second grade my third most sinners wish to have —

38th

If I obtain my first, I shall be happy
If I gain my second I shall be rich
But the union of both (as my third) would render me unhappy —

39th

My first is the beautiful parent of my second, my third is the friend of Lovers. —

40th

Too much for one, enough for two, and nothing for three. —

41st

My first you will own is a proper my second will tell you I O

My third is transcendent in water
For your sake it will rise above earth

42nd

My first is a capital character in the annals of parosassow; my second as celebrated in the annals of Billingsgate & my third is a leader in the annals of biography —

43<sup>d</sup>

My first is universally sought yet is generally abused; when it composes the magic chain of my second it produces on the use made of my third the greatest happiness or misery mortals are susceptible of.

44th

My first is a blessing and comfort thro life and smaller you'll own is my second

My third is a misfortune admittance relief
None greater I ever heard record —

45th

To accomplish my first is the wish of my life and happy I'd be could I find out the art a letter take off & then is would a thing of no use unless regard & shall another take off & then you will find What refreshes the body & quicks the mind

46th

My first runs at you
My second runs into you
My third runs through you —

47th

To advise my first in distant climes Thousand of wretches toil and of my second oftentimes Many tender maids dispoil
My first from youth to age we find Ladies always wish for yet when they gain oft prove unkind and do not care a fish for —

48th

My first is a meane that is usually given
To actions that point out the way to heaven

My second poets should study with care
No painting without it we ever could bear but my third you possess a secret to tell
'Tis one of the reasons I love you so well —

49th

Made by L<sup>d</sup> Palmers at Lady Spencers.
My first & second are the lot of each delighted guest When every sorrow is forgot at Spencers social past.
These two together form a third which when these hours are past we queue to think how we depart we must pronounce at last

Answer

Whilst through the various scenes we pass Which busy life engage Whilst different follies each embrace Gay youth and peevish age
To all the busy bustling throng
With ease we bid adieu
But ah tis sure too hard a task
To say farewell to you —

My first is called bad or good,
May pleasure or offend you;
My second in a thirsty mood
May very much befriend you.
My whole tho' stiled a "evil word";
May yet appear a kind one;
It often may with joy be heard,
With tears may often blind one.

50th

From my first with reluctance I part Which my second far distant will lead
Yet united they soothe the torn heart
Which unkindness hath sentenced to bleed —

51st

My first is the reverse of out
My second is a true
My third resolved you no doubt
A woman's name will see
My total when combined will shew
A place for those who're sick and low —

52nd

My first was entailed upon my second
By the curiosity & disobedience of my third

53rd

My first however here abused,
Designs the sex abroad;
In Cambrew, such is custom's pow'r
'Tis Jenkin, John or Joan.
My second oft is loudly called Whom men prepare to fist it.
It's name delights the female ear;
It's force may soon assist it!

It binds the weak, it binds the strong,
The wealthy and the poor;
Still tis to joy a passport deern'd,
For sully'd fame a cure.
It may ensure an age of bliss,
Yet misery oft attend it;
To fingers, ears, and noses too,
Its various lords commend it.
My whole may chance to make one drink,
Though vendid in a fish shop;
'Tis now the mouth of the sea
And has been an Archbishop.

54th

My first is plow'd for various reasons, and grain is frequently buried in it to little purpose. My second is neither sifted nor honours; yet the former would generally be given for it, and the latter is <sup>often</sup> generally had <sup>without</sup> it.
My whole applied equally to spring summer, autumn, and winter; and both fish and flesh, prairie and censure, mirth and melan choly, are the better for being mix'd.

55th

My first, with the most rooted antipathy to a Frenchman, paid himself, whenever they met, upon striking close to his back My second has many virtues, nor is its least that it gives name to my first.
My whole anyway I never catch!

56th

My first is one of England's prime boasts; it rejoices the ear of a horse, & anguishes the toe of a man. My second, when brick, is good; when stone, better; when wooden, best of all. My whole is famous alike for rottenness & fun.

57th

My first, when a french man is learning English, serves him to swear by. My second is either hay or corn. My whole, is the delight of the present age & will be the admiration of posterity —

Explanation of Enigmas

- 1st Carpet 44 Hopeless
- 2<sup>d</sup> Glow worm 45 Please
- 3<sup>d</sup> Woman 46 Back Throat
- 4th Quanter 47 Sweet heart
- 5th Watch chain 48 Good nature
- 6th High cap 49 Farewell
- 7th Ribbon 50 Friend ship
- 8th Fore groom 51 Indifference
- 9th Chatham 52 Woman
- 10th Bug bear 53 Herring
- 11th Court ship 54 Season
- 12th Lover 55 Fanter
- 13th Bedlock 56 Cornwall
- 14 Nosegay 57 Garrison

- 15 Snow drop
- 16 Bass viol
- 17 Heart case
- 18 Book case
- 19 Coffee
- 20 Advice
- 21 Sunday
- 22 Indigo
- 23 Woman
- 24 Crow fish
- 25 Muffin
- 26 Indigo
- 27 Lovely
- 28 Pensioner
- 29 Peerless
- 30 Restoro
- 31 Chairman
- 32 Book case
- 33 Pensioner
- 34 Whisker
- 35 Foot stool
- 36 Supporter
- 37 Garden
- 38 Misfortune
- 39 Moonlight
- 40 Secret
- 41 Pattern
- 42 Cadaver
- 43 Gold ring

Explanation to the Enigma's

- 1 Heroine
- 2 Herring
- 3 Advice
- 4 Madam
- 5 Dutch S
- March on S
- Count S
- 6 Heart
- 7 Indigo
- 8 Eye
- 9 Bed
- 10 Letter I
- 11 Alp herb
- 12 VI = IV = I
- 13 Devil
- 14 Blacksmith
- 15 Letter E
- 16 Lord
- 17 Road according to the stops
- 18 I see you're too wise for me
- 19 Love
- 20 Highway
- 21 Ministers
- 22 Turkey coffee
- 23 Just - Dec
- 24 Road
- 25 Egg

- Answers to the Quizzes -
- 1 a Bitch 36 because it is immaterial
- 2 Straps 37 because he doubles the cap
- 3 to keep his head warm 38 because there are letters in
- 4 because the bed don't go to them 39 because he is useless
- 5 to stay 40 because it lets you see yourself
- 6 No horse has five 41 because people lie between them
- 7 a mace 42 because she shows pale colors
- 8 Huns because brutes were first created 43 Wind
- 9 a fat little pig - because 44 XL excellent
- a little fat pig must be lean
- 10 the bit that goes into it
- 11 on the head
- 12 noise -
- 13 at Endor
- 14 Three
- 15 Letter a -
- 16 the bridges a way
- 17 In a hop yard & then he would see from pole to pole
- 18 His Daughter
- 19 a woman embracing twins
- 20 - 2 + 1 makes 21. 1 + 2 + 12
- 21 Cordial
- 22 because they are mended
- 23 Take I from XIX
- 24 news paper
- 25 Shorter
- 26 Right side B side W side L side upper side under side inside & outside -
- 27 The outside
- 28 Christmas
- 29 Nether
- 30 a just
- 31 Jonah in the Whales stomach
- 32 His foot
- 33 because he has lost his master's counterpane
- 34 because he's your word boy
- 35 because it has a pupil

Answers to the Transpositions

- 1 Lemon & mace
- 2 Fair & air
- 3 art. Rob. Jan
- 4 with Jim
- 5 Pedagogue
- 6 Understanding

Enigmas 1st

What is the word from which if you take the five last letters is a male, the four last a female, the three last a great man and altogether a woman —

2nd

The name of a fish not very uncommon is the pride & the boast of a young married woman

3rd

What is that every body wants, every one asks & nobody takes?

4th

Five letters do compose my name
Direct abuse tis still the same
In compliment I'm known to dwell
So what I am fair Ladies tell. —

5th

A letter in the Dutch alphabet denotes A lady of high rank, walk over it & it becomes one of inferior rank, reckon it & you will find it of a still different rank —

6th

What is that which dances & skips
Tis known by the eyes but cheats in the lips
It seldom is seen but often times read
It is sometimes a feather & now & then lead
When it meets with its match it is happily caught
But when money can buy it tis not worth a groat

7th

If I from you a kiss receive,
And you that kiss return
You by that act with ease express
The thing you're to return —

8th

A word of one syllable easy and short
Read backwards and forwards the same It expresses the sentiments warm from the heart — and tis beauty says principle claim

9 —
Form'd long ago yet made to day
Employ'd while others sleep
What few would ever give away Or any wish to keep —

10

Pray Ladies who in sewing wit delight
Say what's invisible yet never out of sight

11 a word of three syllables such till you find That has in it the 24 letters combin'd —

12

When you and I together meet we make up six in house and street
When I and you do meet one snow
Alas! poor we, can make but four,
And last when you from I am gone
I make but solitary one.

13

Long before Adam on there lived and liveth one as is believed Whose name evered here you'll see Ladies pray say who this may be —

14

Yonder lives a shoemaker who works without Leather and strange employs all the four Elements together
Of Fire he makes use of water Earth and air and for wily customer makes a double pair —

15

The beginning of eternity
The end of time and space
The beginning of every end and the end of every place. —

16

Twist pounds & pence two letters plus, I will tell you something near his grace

Wing lady in this land
Has twenty nails, on each hand
Five, & twenty on hands and feet:
all this is true without deceit.

18

I C U B Y Y for me. —

19

There is a certain natural production,
Neither animal, Vegetable or Mine= =sal, it exists upon the surface of the Earth from two feet to six; it is neither Male or Female but between both, it is often mentioned in the old Testament and strongly recommend =ed in the new. —

20

I'm rough I'm smooth I'm wet I'm dry
My station here my title high
The King my lawful Master is I'm used by all the only his.

21

Four men sat down in a tavern to play
They play'd all night & most part of the
The <sup>day</sup> none of them betted no stake was put down Each found when he rose he was winner a Crown.

22

An ingenious workman once made a spit Five hundred Turkeys were roasted on it all well roasted & all at one time all very fat and all in their prime But here comes the wonder for what do you think

All our roast was at one turn'd into a drink

23 a shining wet pronounced of lake

That every Active Magistrate
Was water in a freezing state

A monosyllable I am & a ceptile I vow yet cut one in twain & I'm syllables two I'm English & Latin I'm one or the other
What is English for one half is Latin for the other
Not to give you more trouble or puzzle your brains
Do but put one together I'm a syllable again —

25

a polish'd face as white as Milk.
Lind with a skin as soft as Silk a golden apple neat appears Veild with a Crystal flood of tears
No entrance here the gates ungod
But thieves break thro' & steal the god

Queries —

1 What thing is that which is lengthen=
=ed by being cut at both ends?

2nd

What makes shoes

3

Why does a Miller wear a white coat?

4

Why no people gets bed?

5

What was yesterday's date at wife tomorrow?

6

Which has most legs a Horse or no Horse?

7

What is most like a horse's shoe?

8

Which were made first Elbows or knees?

9

Which is the fattest a little fat Pig or a fat little Pig?

10

What is less than a white mouth?

11

When was the first nail struck in the Ark?

12

What is that which a coach can't be made with= =out can't go with out & yet it is not of any use to it?

13

Where did the witch of Endor live?

a goose before two Geese a goose behind two Geese a goose between two Geese
 How many Geese are there?

15

What difference is there between live fish and fish alive?

16

How would people go over the water if the bridge was a way?

17

Where would you set a man that he might see the farthest?

18

What relation is that child to its Father that is not its fathers son?

19

How can you take two from one so that three shall remain?

20

Which is the most 1 & 2 or 2 & 1?

21

Why is a darned stocking like dead men?

22

How can you take one from nine = ten so as twenty shall remain?

23

What is that which is black & white and read all over?

24

What is that which becomes shorter by being lengthened?

25

How many sides have you?

26 on which side of St. Pauls Church does the tree stand?

What is that which we adore, that we abjure, & that we celebrate?

29

If a woman were to change her sex what religion would she then be of?

30

What is Majesty deprived of its externals?

31

What is that which was born without a soul liv'd and had a soul yet did without a soul?

32

What did Adam first set in the Garden of Eden?

33

Why is Charles Fox like a mott'd Guinea?

34

Why is a Parsons horse like a king?

35

Why is the eye like a preceptor?

36

Why is the soul like a thing of no consequence?

37

Why is a Taylor putting two collars on your coat like a Navigator to India?

38

Why is a printing house like a Post office?

39

Why is a fool like a noun substantive?

40

Why is a looking glass like experience?

41

Why are bad Books enemies to truth?

42

Why is a painted Lady like a pirate?

43

What is that which is often heard often felt but never seen?

44

A Gentleman on being asked his age by a Lady. answered It is just what you do in every thing?

Enigma - my first is myself in a very short word my second a puppet & you are my third - 200 17 Old Maids - 19 Astrocrats Earl - 2 Pinches of snuff - a Turkey Carpet 9th Regt of foot guards 99 Peached Eggs with 50 odd &c's may all be expressed by a Liquid in common use - Ink -

Transpositions

If you a soue thing transpose a very sweet one will disclose

2

If you view one aright
 I am beautiful and just

Take a letter away and without one you're dead

3

A form for writing if transposed a quadruped will be disclosed Transpose the same again you'll see a turn for sailors told & free Letters and words of each but these 4

An insect of the smallest size
 If you transpose it rightly will tell you what <sup>men</sup> ought to prize Tho' called by them lightly

5

Howe eat Pig

6

Red nutt & gin

To find out my first even Esquire would try
 My second he would wish for to make it My 3<sup>d</sup> I am sure of whenever you are by and heartily wish you to take it -

Pleasure

My second makes my first & I carry my whole in my pocket - Penkase

Riddle

O in all the world my empire does extend
 And while that lasts my reign will never end
 By all I'm lov'd and almost all devis'd Yet when I promise next they'll all believe To heaven I lead but must not enter there
 In Hell I cannot be death is my sphere
 If yet in vain you study for my name, Search your own heart for surely there I am.

Hope -

Anagrams

- |                  |               |
|------------------|---------------|
| To love ruin     | Revolution    |
| great Help       | Telegraph     |
| Sheep at Cairo   | Apothecaries  |
| Real Gun         | Funeral       |
| No stop it rains | Transposition |
| Very sour        | Surveyor      |
| Richard Rips     | Harpsichord   |
| Little Sea       | Satellite     |
| Spare him not    | Misanthropy   |
| No more stars    | Astronomers   |
| Best in Prayer   | Presbyterian  |
| Hard case        | Charades      |
| There we sat     | Sweet herb    |
| Five set easy    | Hysteria      |
| Sophy cant       | Sycophants    |
| I magic Sale     | Amigmatical   |
| Evil Fast        | Festival      |
| Five Ham         | Machin        |
| A Poison Pill    | Opposition    |

My first is conclusive
 My second is diminutive
 My whole is extensive - Endless
 My first brings joy to all around
 My second may bring sorrow
 My third but once a year is found
 It may be yours tomorrow - Birthday

My first Almira cannot be X
But may it soon obtain
If she will be the next to me
And smile upon her swain
Who wants no crown to make him best
Nor you perhaps to give the rest
But that you may not be disheart
My whole denotes the human race
Of which Almira is a grace —

My first will deck the <sup>Man-kind</sup> fairest frame
My second will devour the same
My whole is thought an emblem true
Of future change to me & you — Silk-worm

Three fourths of a fiddle with a D in the middle a Cat & a half
If you press it you'll laugh —

orolun

An English oratorical dinner for the month of January

6 The emblem of peace = corn & part of the tree = quayside ascribed of a letter.	1 Part of your shoe	9 Six fifths of what all ships have, & are on either side - one third of a bar the first part of an eminent person.
7 Labour changing a letter = with of a man's Christian name, a consonant & grave bird.	2 A vessel and two fifths of a blunder	10 A large weight and three fifths of a vessel
8 Half of a joke, fifty & two thirds of a falsehood	3 Half of three famous victors, the last half of a tormenting paper 3 fourths of a French coin & the 3 <sup>d</sup> of a slight rapier	11 A favourite colour and a cracked letter
	4 Four fifths of serious & the beginning of wisdom
	5 Half of a swift animal - 3 fifths of a male relation, a consonant, a preposition, four sixths of a famous city, & what is always dear to us.

6 The fifth of a musical instrument, 1/4 th of a valuable spice and the square opposed of a letter.	2 Course 1 Two deaths of a Man's Christian name, the suffer- ers wish deprived of a letter, an in- dustrious insect & the 4 th of a haughty woman	9 Half a trade to be omitted half standing water half a meek's comstock
7 The fifth of a sparrow I'm a useful fruit & the leaf of half a bird	2 The staff of life & the 1/2 th of a cable of a kitchen utensil	10 A meek
	3 Britain - a famous woman dietetic & half a chest 4 Three fifths of a small quantity, a consonant, and one fourth of a space of time.
	5 To divide, deprived of e letter.	11 A sailor and his consonants

Answer

2 Course

- 1 Sole
- 2 Butter
- 3 Greeny soup
- 4 Greens
- 5 Haunch of Venison
- 6 Larks Tongue
- 7 Boiled Fowls
- 8 Jelly
- 9 anchovy sauce
- 10 Pongee
- 11 Greens

- 1 Phewants
- 2 Boiled sauce
- 3 whipt Syllabub
- 4 Greeny
- 5 Hare
- 6 Hummer
- 7 Mined pies
- 8 Hot apple pie
- 9 Black pudding
- 10 Puffs
- 11 Parts

Where were letters first invented - in A.B.C. - via - Which were Queen Elizabeth's favorite letters? S X
 Which ought most to be avoided? X S
 Which are the Debtors Letters? I.O.U
 Which the Gamsters? C O
 Which the Painters? S
 Which the most compassionate? D T
 Which the most Populous? C T
 Which have nothing in them? M T
 Which gave title to a foreign Ambassador? X L N C

Which the most Aspiring?
 Which an enemy to numerous people?
 Which the best?

What Trade is this?

Why is a Sermon Reached on board ships like a Ladies Ornament.
 Because it is a Decoration

* If this world were at an end, and there were a new world Why would it be like an Amusement minutes past 12?
 Why is a Man in a great Passion like 59 than a good Wife better Answers because it would be a re-creation.
 Because he is just ready to strike me
 Because bad is the best.

I am un Undertakes recommended by Dr - and if you are not engaged shall be happy to enter you

The Devil
 you will

I 2 me 3 with a brace of Pistols.
 Stand
 Take to Takings you thours my

Why is a brave Man like a Coward?
 My first & second are the same, my whole is a Complaint My 4 runs at you, my second runs in you and my whole runs through you S Back. Thown.
 Black, Blue, Red, Yellow, and Green. are intended to hide what is meant to be seen.

In sleep, for refuge from both sides,
I sought, but vainly sought repose;
And thus I argued, when I woke:—
"Of all the woes which were enst,
That ever our nights are thus oppress,
And sleep is any thing but rest,
Our hateful dreams, portending ill
How cruel, when the wearied mind Repose and refuge seeks to find
To all the woes that should add still more
But if before our eyes should pass Scenes of unreal joy, alas!
How sad the feeling, when we rise,
To find them vanished from our eyes
And all our promis'd pleasures vain!"

To then I thought. Another night
Brought with it visions of delight;
In soft delusion lost, I lay Enraptur'd till returning day:
"Oh them, methought, what power can deem,
So charming as the power to dream!

We sleep still bliss we see In these our dreams, how blest are we If happy born on blacker wing, How sweet the recompense we take
In those glad feelings, when we wake,
To find our pleasures still our own,
And, with our dream, our sorrow flourish!

Madam,
 The extreme tenderness I have hitherto expressed for you is false, I feel that my indifference towards you daily increases, and the more I see of you the more you appear ridiculous in my eyes, and am object of contempt
 I find myself inclined and in every sense resolved to hate you, believe me, I never had the least wish to offer you my heart, our last conversation has not given me the most exalted idea of your character your inconsistent temper would make me miserable, and if we are united I can experience nothing but the resentment of my friends, added to eternal dissatisfaction in living with you I have indeed a heart to bestow but do not wish you to imagine that it is at your disposal, never can I bestow it on one more incapable of doing honour to my choice & to my family yes Madam! I beg and desire you will believe that I speak sincerely and you need not take any trouble in answering this, your letters are replete with nonsense & impertinence, believe that I am so weary to you that it is impossible I should ever be your devoted admirer

Right & left to bring

Hands round low to the

Down the middle

Hands across

Asking & Dance. Leading out to a table

From the Leading home Royal

Dancing

Dancing at the

They have

Heads to get!

Boxing

Putting to fight

Rope Dancing

Courting

Playing a Rubber

to bring

New Dictionary or present meaning of several words in common use, which have undergone a material change with the last thirty years - Age - - An infirmity nobody knows

Bore - Every thing one does not like; also any one who speaks about Religion Courage - Fear of Man.

Cowardice - Fear of God.

Dancing Whisking round the room in the arms of your partner

Decency Keeping up appearances.

Dressed - Half Naked

Undressed Covered up to the throat.

Dunk - Comfortable

Economy - Obsolete.

Friends - The meaning is uncertain

Honesty - Not in use.

Honour - Stand fire well.

Hospitality - Obsolete

Home - Every body's house but your own.

At Home - The domestic arrangement of receiving 300 visitors in a small room

Not At Home - Sitting in your own parlour.

Matrimony - A Bargain

Quiz - Any inoffensive person in your own circle -

Religion - Occupying a seat in a fashionable Chapel.

Steady - Only applied to servants and horses

Time - Only regarded in Music

Truth - Meaning uncertain

Wife - A necessary Evil

Devil - A delightful creature; also a wooden Toy for the amusement of children

A Gentleman made a Lacy and offer by sending her the following

I that you let love one none that none is but one but only one be only three, one me one love and different Indi

My first exists only for my second and my second is always cheerless & gloomy, in the absence of my first my whole is employed by very different ways, some devote it to reading others to riding, some to drinking, some to thinking others to settling their accounts with Man, others employ it in settling their accounts with God.

SHALL WE ALL DIE
WE SHALL DIE ALL
ALL DIE SHALL WE DIE ALL WE SHALL

The following Epitaph is taken from a Dombstone at Gunwallow, near Helstone Cornwall

Clerical Anecdote
The late Dr Balguy a Preacher of great celebrity after having delivered an exceeding good discourse at the Cathedral Winchester.
The text of which was "All wisdom is sorrow" received the following extempore and elegant Compliment from Dr Watson, then at Winchester School.
"What you advance dear Dr is true That wisdom is sorrow" how wretched are you

How wretched are you because you have received the fatal news of your death

Written by the poor Dr. B. on his own despatch
Dear friends, I feel a burning fever
So all my friends and family
No more of it, no more of it
I have a very warm heart
At present, I am a
I am a very warm heart
I am a very warm heart
I am a very warm heart

Lines addressed by Mr. Pope to the Duke of Queensbury Did Deba's Person and his sense agree,
 What mortal could behold her and be free
 Enrich'd The Image but defaced the Mind
 Had Pope a person equal to his mind
 How fatal would it be to Woman kind
 But nature who does all things well ordain Deform'd the Body but enrich'd the Brain

My own Epitaph. By Gay
 I thought to once but could not make things I know it
 I thought to once but could not make things I know it
 I thought to once but could not make things I know it

If there's a tear, a human tear,
 From Parson's Drops refined and clear,
 It teak so limpid and so meek,
 It would not stain an Angel's cheek,
 'Tis such as pious Falter's shed,
 Upon a dutious Daughter's head.
 Walter Scott

Epitaph on a Parson
 Come let us rejoice merry Boys at his fall
 For e'gad had he lived he'd have bray'd us all

The Meeting of the Waters

There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet
As that vale in whose bosom the bright waters meet
Oh! the last rays of feeling and life must depart
Ere the bloom of that valley shall fade from my heart

Yet it was not that nature had shed o'er the scene
Her purest of crystal, and brightest of green
Twas not the soft magic of streamlet or hill Oh no! it was something more exquisite still;

Twas that friends, the beloved of my bosom were near Who made every scene of enchantment more dear
And who felt how the best charms of nature improve
When we see them reflected from looks that we love

Sweet vale of Droca! how calm could I rest
In thy bosom of shade, with the friends I love best Where the storms which we feel in this cold world shall cease
And our hearts like thy waters be mingled in peace

vide Moore's Irish Melodies -

My ain Fire side

Oh I hae seen great ones and sat in great Halls
Many Lords and many Ladies a cover'd we brais, At feasts made for Princes we Princes I've been Where the grand shine of splendour has dazzled my een
But a slight sae delightful I trou I mair spied
Its the bonny little blink o my ain Fire side

My ain fire side, my ain fire side
How sweet is the blink O my ain fire side

2

Since mair Lord be prais'd round my ain heartsome Ingle
We the friends o my youth I cordially mingle Nae force now upon me to seem wae or glad -

I may laugh when I'm merry and sigh when I'm sad Nae faunhood to dread and nae Malice to fear
But truth to delight and kindness to cheer,
O of a' roads to pleasure that ever was tried There's nae half so sure as aunes ain fire side

My ain fire side My ain fire side,
Oh sweet is the blink O my ain fire side

3

When I draw in my stool on my cozy hearth stane
My Heart lumps sae light I scarce ken'd for my ain Care has flown on the winds, it is clean out of sight
Past troubles they seem but as dreams o' the night
I hear but kent voices, kind faces I see
I make fond affections beam frae ilk ee

Nae fleaching o' flattery nae boasting o' pride
Tis heart speaks to heart at my ain fire side

My ain fire side my ain fire side
Oh sweet is the blink o my ain fire side

The poor man, lifting up his death dimm'd eye—
Of those he lov'd to take a farewell view
And giving them by Faith, to God on high,
Finds in his soul more satisfaction true,
Than if he saw, with every Wind that blew,
Wafted for them, the Death of Asias shores,
Than if he left them Crowns, or rich Peru
Were opening, vast, her subterranean Doors,
For them, the astonish'd World to heap with all her stores—
Yet saw, no stock he, with cold Neglect To heal his own, despising Nature's Tie
Nor raving, rapt enthusiast to expect,
A miracle from Heaven for their supply, —
No no the dew that moistens either eye,
The heavy sighs, he labours to suppress,
While stretching forth his feeble hand to dry
The stream of grief that flows on every face Compassion, love sincere, and deep regret confess—
"My lovely stock" he cries for whom e'en Toil
"Was sweet at morn, at noon, or Twilight grey"
"If still I found you, with complacent smile"
"Around me gathered at the close of day
"Oft, while the silent hours have winged their way"
"Beck shedding soft on you its soothing power,"
"Watchful have I remain'd behind to pray"
That heaven might long defer, this trying hour"
And kind upon your Heads its choicest blessings pour!

Ridley 10th

J

AMA/1112

For Mrs. J. B. ...

For Mrs. ...

For Mrs. ...

	Index	Page
To gild sheets of paper - To silver paper without silver		1
To dye straw of different Colours		2
To prevent Water Colours from sinking on Paper or Prints		3
To prepare Silk or Satin for painting in water Colours		36
A Carmish for prints Drawings or Fancy work &c		4
Burnished Gilding on Glass		5
Flour thinned with Brown water		6
Rice the best substitute for Flour		8
A Method of preserving Potatoes		16
Receipt for making bread with rice		9
Another		10
A dish of snow receipt for		11
Receipt for making Ribband Jelly		12
Receipt for making Orange & Lemon Brandy		13
Receipt for making Rasp berry Brandy		16
Receipt for Lemon biscuits		16
Receipt for Currant cake		16
Receipt for Staining Wood Miss Davidsons		15

To Gild Sheets of Paper

Take yellow ochre, grind it with rain water, and lay a ground with it all over the paper which should be fine wove: when dry, take the white of an Egg and about a quarter of an ounce of white sugar candy, and beat them together till the sugar candy is dissolved; then strike it all over the ground with a varnish brush and immediately lay in the gold leaf, pressing it down with a piece of fine cotton: when dry polish it with Dogs tooth or agate. A sheet of this paper may be prepared for 1.6 which costs 6 in the shops.

To Silver paper without Silver after the Chinese manner.

Take two scruples of clear glue (Indian glue is the best) one scruple of allum and half a pint of clear water: simmer the whole over a slow fire till it is nearly two thirds evaporated. Then, your sheets of paper being laid on a smooth table, dip a varnishing brush in the preparation, and go quickly over the paper twice; sift powder of talc through a fine sieve made of gauze; hang it to dry, and when dry rub off the superfluous talc which serves again for the same purpose. The talc is prepared in the following manner: - Take 1 lb of Muscovy talc boil it in fair water four hours then take it

2 of the foil and let it stand in the water ~~two~~ days wash it well beat it to pieces in a mortar and add to it six ounces of allum which when reduced to a fine powder put again into clear water and just give it a boil pour off the water and place the powder in the sun or a warm place to dry and it will become a harder consistence this beat in a mortar to an impalpable powder and it is fit for use. Put it in a bottle to keep it from dust, which is apt to make it appear dingy.—

To Dye Straw of different Colours.—

Yellow.— Take the largest and most perfect barley straws cut them into proper lengths and boil them in some good clear Lye: to which add as many french berries as will bring them to the colour desired. When taken out put them in cold water for a few minutes, and then set them in a warm place to dry.
For Red use Brazil as above; for Blues, Litmus and for Greens, first Dye blue & then give a boil in yellow.

or Prints To prevent Water Colours from Sinking on paper. 3

Boil Isinglass in fair water untill it acquires the consistence of weak gum water; then with a piece of clean sponge or clean varnish Brush, go over the print twice before you begin to lay on your colours.

To prepare Silk or Sattin for painting in Water Colours

Take Isinglass, and Boil it in spirits of Wine, or Brandy, to the consistence of strong gum-water; and when you have drawn your outline with a black lead pencil go over all the parts to be coloured with the composition, and when dry you may commence your work.

A Varnish for Prints, Drawings, Fancy Work &c

Take four ounces of Isinglass, in small pieces; boil it in one quart of Brandy or Spirits of Wine; expose it to the Air and when only warm, wash over the print or drawing (which should be previously mounted), and let it stand till quite dry; then wash it again at a small distance from the fire, or it will blister; which repeat two or three times; then go twice over with the following white Varnish:— Take of gum sandarac, and gum mastich, equal quantities, dissolve them in spirits of wine, let them settle two days, then strain through a linen cloth, and pour the clear liquor into a bottle for use—

Burnished gilding on glass

Gilding on glass is chiefly used for ornamenting the borders of prints, name plates, and for other ornamental decorations of various kinds, and is performed in the following manner: Dissolve some of the whitest and most transparent isinglass in the clearest water, till pretty thick, strain it through a linen cloth, and keep it in a vial well corked; then take the best black varnish, such as is used for the roofs of carriages; to which add a small quantity of burnt lamp black, well ground in spirits of turpentine; and with a large flat varnish brush, give the glass one even thin coat, possessing a small degree of transparency, and appearing a good black on the other side of the glass; then with a fine needle scribe the outlines of what black is to come out; then with a camel hair pencil lay a little water on the parts of the varnish you wish to detach, and in a few minutes it will peel away clean from the glass. When all the varnish to be taken off is ~~to be~~ removed, set the glass near the fire to dry, and harden the varnish; then take the size of a pea of the isinglass jelly, and put it into a teacup containing some clean hot water in which it must be dissolved. Next prepare your gold leaf by cutting it, on a gilding cushion into the most convenient forms. With a hair pencil, dipped into the isinglass water, touch those parts of the glass you would have gilt, and while moist, lay on the leaf gold; then set the glass in a slanting position before the fire to dry, a few minutes, and, while it is a little warm with a piece of clean cotton, rub the gold smartly to the glass which will give it a kind of polish; then proceed to lay on a second coat of gold in the same manner, and your work is finished. Some lay on three coats but if the gold leaf is good two are sufficient.

---

Flour kneaded with bran water will produce one-tenth more of Bread than if the same quantity of flour were kneaded with plain water. The experiment is simple, and ought to be tried, since the bran is not lost nor injured in the boiling. Mr. Haggitt says that he boiled 5 lb. of bran, and with the liquor strained from it, kneaded 5 lb. of flour, adding the usual quantity of salt and yeast. The weight before it was put into the oven was 9 lb. 13 oz. or about 8 lb. 10 oz. more than the same quantity of flour kneaded with common water.

6
loses about 1.546. 1107. in the baking. Thus a clear increase of one-fifth is obtained. The reasons are obvious: 1. Bran water weighs half a pound per gallon more than common water; 2. It evaporates less by heat; and 3. A greater quantity of it is necessary in kneading the flour.

---

Rice The best Substitute for Flour

Of all the substitutes for flour, there is none which is so forcibly recommended by experience as that of rice, and none which is more likely to be procured in sufficient abundance. The truly estimable Treasurer of the Foundling Hospital, M<sup>r</sup>. Bernard, during the scarcity of wheat in 1795, recommended to that institution, to substitute rice puddings for those of flour. The flour puddings had taken 168 pounds of flour; the rice puddings required only 21 pounds of rice, to make the same quantity and weight of pudding. The result was that one pound of rice went nearly as far as eight pounds of flour. The use of these puddings has ever since been continued at the Hospital. The saving of money to the Hospital has been above 2000. a year, and the saving of flour to the nation 17,517<sup>2</sup> pounds weight per annum.

M<sup>r</sup>. Bernard states, that there is hardly any way which rice can be staved down, either with bacon and seasoning with meat, or cheese in which it will not make a cheap, pleasant, and nutritious dish; and it is particularly proper for the aged, the infirm, and the young, who compose the greater part of the inhabitants of every poor house. Rice contains a great deal of nutriment in a small compass, and does not pass so quickly off the stomach as some other substitutes for wheat flour do. It is a good ingredient for bread.

Receipt. — Boil a quarter of a pound of unground rice till it is quite soft; put it on the back of a sieve to drain it, and when cold mix it with three quarters of a pound of flour; a tea cup of yeast, a tea cup of milk, and a small table spoonful of salt. Let it stand for three hours; then knead it up, and roll it up in a handful of flour, so as to make the outside dry and a quarter will bake it. it will weigh 1 lb. 1 1/2 oz and will keep eight days it should not be eat till it is two days old.

A Gentleman, named Millington, has communicated to the Society instituted at Bath for the benevolent purpose of improving the condition of the lower orders of the people, a method for preserving potatoes. Take three pound and a half of potatoes, peel and rasp or grind them, then put the pulp into a coarse cloth, and place it between two boards in a common maphin-press, till it becomes a dry cake, about the thickness of thin cheese; then lay it on a shelf to dry. From such a quantity of potatoes about a quart of juice is expressed, to which add the same quantity of cold water, and about 60 grains of starch or fine flour for pastry will be deposited. The potatoe cake, by boiling or steaming, regains nearly the same weight as the roots lost by the pressure. Frozen potatoe, by this mode, become perfectly sweet and eatable, Upon a large scale the same method may be adopted for the Navy, as the cake occupies but a sixth part of the compass of the potatoes, and will remain good for years. Carrots & Turnips may be preserved the same way and will keep for two or 3 years.

By the experiments of Mr Nicholas Ward Boylston, for mixing rice with wheaten flour, the first experiment was - six ounces of rice boiled in one quart of water till it was dry and quite soft; two pounds of flour were then added; and the whole with 2 spoonfuls of yeast well worked into dough together, with the usual quantity of salt; giving it rather longer time to rise, which it was found it required. The loaf thus made when baked, was light in quality, sweeter and more palatable than the common bread, and produced three pounds seven ounces & an half

From this experiment the following fact appears, that rice gains in weight in a double proportion, to that of any other grain, as will be seen by this statement:

Two pounds of Flour is - -	<sup>87</sup> 32	} Bread produced - - -	<sup>87</sup> 35½
Rice - - - - -	6		} Deduct as per con. - - - 38
To make a Quarter Loaf is		} When baked is by Standard generally used <sup>Lb</sup> 3½ of flour is - -	56		} weight <sup>Lb oz Dr</sup> 4.598 is - - - } Deduct as per contra - - - Gained - - -

Therefore the difference is, that 2lbs of flour and 6oz of rice produce 4oz more weight than 3½ lbs of flour made into wheaten bread.

The second experiment was - in doubling the quantity of rice to the same quantity of flour, which was found to answer for immediate consumption, but would not answer for general purposes; whence it may be concluded, that one fifth of rice may be used with flour to great advantage to the public, by increasing the subsistence, and with profit to the baker, who can afford to sell it at one penny halfpenny under the 'apeize, and gain double what he does by baking the standard bread.

It is to be observed, this experiment was made singly, and consequently weighed less than it would have weighed, had it been baked in a batch. For making the foregoing experiments, it was proved that nine tenths flour and one tenth rice, and in the same way as directed for making bread (except using yeast and salt) produced a finer crust in pastry than using flour alone. Bread thus made keeps longer moist than wheat bread, and is better the second day than the first. Rice may be steamed rather than boiled; and if the quality of the rice be good, half a pound steamed in little more than one quart of water till it is quite dry and soft, gains two pounds, that is, four fifths in weight.

---

A dish of Snow

Take twelve large Apples, and put them into a saucepan with cold water. set them over a slow fire, and when they are soft, pour them on a hair sieve. take off the skins and put the pulp into a bason. then beat the whites of twelve eggs to a very strong froth, beat & sift half a pound of double refined sugar and strew it into the eggs. work up the pulp of your apples to a strong froth then beat them all together till they are like a stiff snow lay it upon a dish and heap it as high as you can. set round it green

Knots of paste in imitation of chinese rails and stick a sprig of Myrtle in the middle of the dish -

---

Ribband Jelly

Take out the great bones of 4 Calfs feet and put the meat into a pot with 10 quarts of water 3 Ounces of Hartshorn & the same quantity of Isinglass, a nutmeg quartered and 4 Blades of mace, boil it till it comes to 2 quarts, then strain it through a flannel bag and let it stand 24 Hours. then scrape of all the fat from the top slice the jelly, and put to it the whites of 6 Eggs beaten to a froth, boil it a little and strain it through a flannel bag. then run the jelly into little high glasses, and run every color as thick as your finger; but observe that one color must be thoroughly cold before you put on another, & that which you put on must be but blood warm otherwise they will mix together. you must colour red with cochineal, green with Spinach, yellow with saffron, blue with syrup of violets & white with cream -

---

Orange Brandy

Put into three quarts of Brandy the chips of 18 Seville Oranges, and let them steep a fortnight in a bottle close corked boil 2 quarts of spring water with a pound <sup>and half</sup> of the finest sugar near an hour very slow - clarify the water and sugar with the white of an egg, then strain it through a jelly bag, and boil it near half away. When it is cold, strain the Brandy into the syrup.

---

Lemon Brandy

Mix five quarts of water with one gallon of Brandy: then take 2 Dozen of Lemons, 2 pounds of the best sugar, and 3 pints of milk. Pare the lemons very thin, and lay the peel in the Brandy to steep 12 Hours. Squeeze the Lemons upon the sugar, then put the water to it, and mix all the ingredients together. Let it stand 24 Hours and then strain it

---

Raspberry Brandy

13

Mix a pint of water with 2 quarts of Brandy, and put them into a pitcher large enough to hold them, with 4 Pints of Raspberries. put in half a pound of loaf sugar, and let it remain for a week close covered. then take a piece of flannel, with a piece of Holland over it, and let it run through by degrees. In about a week it will be perfectly fine, when you may rack it off; but be careful the bottles are well corked.

---

Lemon Biscuits

Take the yolks of ten Eggs and the whites of five beat them well together with four spoonfuls of Orange flower water till they froth up. Then put in a pound of loaf sugar sifted with ~~4 spoonful~~ of beat in one way for half an hour or more put in half a pound of flour with the rasping of 2 Lemons, and the pulp of a small one. Butter your tin and bake it in a quick oven. but do not stop up the mouth at first, for fear it should scorch. Dust it with sugar before you put it into the oven.

---

Currant Cake

Day well before the fire 2 pounds of fine flour take a pound of butter half a pound of loaf sugar well beaten & sifted 4 Eggs four spoonful of Rose water the same of brandy a spoonful of Cinnamon & a little nutmeg grated beat the Eggs well & put to them the rose water & brandy then put it to the sugar & butter work them all together then stew in a pound of Currants & the flour having them ready warmed for mixing - a tea cup full of cream

Small Currant Cakes

Take  $\frac{1}{2}$  a Pound of sugar finely powdered two pounds of flour well dried 4 Eggs -  $\frac{1}{2}$  a Pound of Butter washed with rose water 6 spoonful of cream warmed and a pound & half of currants. Mix all well together then make them into cakes bake them in a hot oven till they are coloured on both sides. Then take down the oven lid & let them stand to soak. You must rub the butter well into the flour then the Eggs & cream & then the currants

---

Columbo-root

a most excellent medicine in the Cholera-morbus the dose is from half a Drachm to two Drachms of the powder every three or four hours according to the urgency of the symptoms - taken from the article Columbo root in the Encyclopedie - it is also good in Bilious fevers &c

Cur for the Stone & Gravel taken from the English Chronicle Jan<sup>y</sup> 18 - 1810 -

Take an handful of the common weed called wild carrot, either the roots or blossoms, to which put a pint of boiling water, stew it by the fire till the liquor becomes strongly impregnated with the weed. Let the patient take a teaspoonful in the extremity of pain - It is a present relief & by a continuance of it will dissolve the stone -

Take roots of valerian & Capamunair, of each 2 ounces; black hellebore 4 ounces. Digest for 24 days in 2 pounds of spirit of wine rectified; then strain & press it out hard, & to it put extract of saffron 1 ounce; & salt of steel half an ounce, with distilled vinegar 8 ounces. Digest these for some days together in a close vessel, & then pour off & filter for use.

This is a most efficacious medicine in all melancholy hypochondriacal affections in either sex. And there is hardly a case so obstinate as to resist it; if it be long continued.

This is also a good medicine in hysterical disorders, & will seldom fail of removing their cause. It may be given from 10 to 40 drops in compound Bryony water or any such convenient vehicle. If it had some proportion of salt of Amber in its composition it might be rendered yet more efficacious; but that would make unpleasant to take

Sweet scented Water

Take orange water & Rose water, of each equal quantities; put them into a large wide mouthed glass & strew gently upon the surface as many jessamy flowers as will cover it then tie the mouth of the glass over so carefully that the flowers be not shook to the bottom and repeat the procedure; letting each quantity of flowers remain 5 or 6 days untill the water is strongly scented with them: then dissolve ambergrease & Musk, each 1 scruple in a few ounces of it; which filter & put to the rest. This is a fine perfume -

A Receipt for Staining Wood

M<sup>r</sup>. Davidson

$\frac{1}{4}$  lb Logwood Chips

$\frac{1}{4}$  do Brazil dust

$\frac{1}{4}$  do Indigo

Add one Quart of soft Water & simmer them together gently on the fire down to a gill when ready for staining with; mix a few drops of the oil of Turpentine with it